Fall Series of RS-25 Engine Tests

NASA operators on Thursday conducted the fourth in a series of tests on the new RS-25 rocket engine at Stennis Space Center.

The arrival of fall in south Mississippi means billowing clouds of steam exhaust is in the air as NASA continues a series of RS-25 engine tests at Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis. A team of operators conducted another successful 500-second RS-25 hot fire on the A-1 Test Stand at Stennis on Oct. 11, marking the fourth in a series that will extend into 2019. Once again, the hot fire features an acceptance test of an RS-25 engine controller for use on a future flight of NASA's new Space Launch System (SLS) rocket. RS-25 testing represents a critical step in development of the SLS. A quartet of RS-25 engines, firing simultaneously, will provide a combined 2 million pounds of thrust to help launch the new rocket.

Each RS-25 hot fire allows operators to test the performance and reliability of engine components and moves NASA closer to actual launch of the SLS on its maiden missions.

NASA has been testing RS-25 engines at Stennis for SLS use since early 2015. The initial engines are former space shuttle main engines, modified to provide the additional power needed for the SLS rocket. The new flight controller is the central component of the modification and will operate as the RS-25 "brain," helping the engine communicate with the SLS rocket and providing precision control of engine operation and internal health diagnostics.

In addition to the flight controller, this hot fire also featured continued testing of two other new engine components – a 3D-printed pogo accumulator and main combustion chamber fabricated using an innovative bonding technique.

The 3D-printed pogo accumulator dampens potential propellant pressure oscillations that can cause a rocket to become unstable in flight.

The main combustion chamber was fabricated using a bonding technique called hot isostatic pressing (HIP), which saves considerable time and money over more traditional methods. In addition to testing components, operators also continue to explore various engine performance levels and limits.

Each RS-25 hot fire allows operators to test the performance and reliability of engine components and moves NASA closer to actual launch of the SLS on its maiden missions.

The SLS Exploration Mission-1 will test the new rocket and carry an uncrewed Orion spacecraft into space beyond the Moon. Exploration Mission-2 will be the first flight to carry humans aboard the Orion spacecraft to deep space. RS-25 tests at Stennis are conducted by a team of NASA, Aerojet Rocketdyne and Syncom Space Services engineers and operators. Aerojet Rocketdyne is the RS-25 engine prime contractor. Syncom Space Services is the prime contractor for Stennis facilities and operations.

County Utility Authority receives 'good audit'

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Utility Authority board on Thursday heard a presentation from CPA Gerald Rigby about the annual financial report for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 2017.

"It's a good audit," Rigby said. "For several years, this audit has been clean as a whistle, there's not even any suggestions or recommendations we can make as far as internal control matters or 'do this better' or 'do this different,' because it's all been done over the last 10 years."

Rigby went over some highlights with the board. The over/under - which is the difference between each entity's budgeted and actual billings - has "pretty much been eliminated," he said.

According to the audit, the total over-age of the entities (Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Hancock County Water and Sewer District, Pearlinton Water and Sewer District and Kiln Utility and Fire District) as of Sept. 30, 2017 is $7,309.

Another item of note is the depreciation listed on the statement of revenue is high, Rigby said.

"The reason why the depreciation is so high is because you have all those projects that have been completed over the last 10 years," he said. "All these projects are on your books, but most of this infrastructure that was put in is being operated by other entities. It's not revenue producing infrastructure for y'all, but it's on our books, we can't get it off, so we have to depreciate it. This year it's $8 million in depreciation."

Rigby said that water revenues and

The Mississippi State Board of Education on Thursday approved letter grades for schools and districts "based on Mississippi's A-F accountability system that evaluates how schools and districts performed in the 2017-18 school year.

The Bay-Waveland School District received a "C" grade; the Hancock County School District received a "B" grade; and the Pass Christian School District received an "A."

"Accountability grades are based, in part, on how well students perform and progress from year to year on the Mississippi Academic Assessment Program tests for English language arts and Mathematics," a release from the Mississippi Department of Education states. Hancock County Senior Citizens Prom set for this Wednesday

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

On Wed. Oct. 17, Hancock County's seniors citizens are invited to dance through the decades at the annual Hancock County Senior Citizens Prom.

"It's the event of the year for seniors," Hancock County Senior Citizens Center Director Arlene Johnson said.

The dance is sponsored by the Hancock County Senior Prom Committee and the SALT Triad Council, she added.

This year's theme is "Dancing through the Decades," from the 1920s through the 1990s, Johnson said.

Everyone is encouraged to dress from their favorite decade, she added.

A DJ will provide entertainment with musical selections from each decade.

Bay High School's JROTC students will present the colors during the event. Students from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy are also on tap to volunteer for the event, Johnson said.

The event is open to people age 60 and older, Johnson said.

Prom will be held at the Bay St. Louis Community Center, located at 301

Blaize Ave., from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Admission is free, but the committee asks that seniors bring a nonperishable food donation for the Hancock County Food Pantry, Johnson said.

In addition to the prom, the Senior Center also offers daily classes in ceramics, crafts, quilting, and oil painting.

Seniors unable to drive to the center can participate in the center's transportation program. Drivers pick up seniors Monday through Friday in Bay St. Louis, and Waveland; Monday, Wednesday and Friday in Pearlinton and areas north of I-10 such as Diamondhead, Catahoula and Kiln.

Drivers also take seniors to run errands, shop for groceries, pay bills, and attend medical appointments.

Seniors are also served breakfast and lunch at the center.

The only criteria to participate is that people be at least 60 years old and live in Hancock County, Johnson said.

The Hancock County Senior Citizens Center is located at 601 Booker St. in Bay St. Louis. For more information about programs, contact staff at 228-467-9292.

'Renew' service at Main St. UMC offers 'new songs unto the Lord'

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Main Street United Methodist will host its Renew service this Sunday, Oct. 14, from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

"We're doing it every Sunday night," Pastor Chris Klingenfus said. "Basically, it's a service about singing a new song unto the Lord. It's new expressions of faith, music that expresses the times better. It's a more updated music and sound of expressing eternal faith in a way that's more relevant now, providing a more accessible environment for our youth to participate and worship."

Klingenfus said the Renew service is a response to requests from some of the church's younger members.

"We're trying to be relevant to this generation," he said. "We're not against traditional worship. Our church has a traditional service, too, and we value this as well, but we want to sing a new song to the Lord. We're blessed with a lot of musicians in our church that fit in with more of a Christian rock service. We have a lot of guitar players and drummers and bassists. It's tapping into the talents of our church better."

Some of those members are big players in the local music scene, including David Mayley, Richard Pohl and John Hively.

"We still have a choir, and we love that, but we're trying to find a way for others to participate in a way that reaches their skill set as well," Klingenfus said.

"Renew" is not a formal service, "people can come as they are. It has a relaxed attitude to it." It is a full service, not just the music, he said, with a communion on the first Sunday of each month. Not just a vespers kind of thing, but a stand-alone.

Everyone is welcome.

For more information, call Main Street United Methodist Church at 228-467-4538.

Local ministry aims to help women 'rise out of poverty'

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

During her 20 years of jail ministry, Diane Bennett of Diamondhead said she often saw the same women in and out of jail.

"They lack community support, jobs, safe housing and resources," she said.

Bennett said an article in the Baptist Record led her to the next place in her journey, the Gulf Coast Christian Women's Job Corps.

Bennett, who serves as executive director, said the non-profit organization has been serving the community since 2012.

The Gulf Coast Christian Women's Job Corps -- a national organization -- is affiliated with the Women's Missionary Union through the Baptist Association, Bennett said.

"There are 200 job corps in the U.S. with 16 in Mississippi," Bennett said. "We are the only one south of Hattiesburg."

Bennett said the corps reaches out to women in poverty, who are either underemployed or unemployed, utilizing faith-based classes to ensure participants are job ready, able to manage emotional and social issues, adept in money management and the skills necessary to retain employment.

The corps can also help women procure a GED, high school equivalency and enroll in college, Bennett said.

"We focus on raising women out of poverty," she said. "Many women come to us that are not just out of jail. Women can find themselves in poverty for a lot of different reasons such poor choices, a dysfunctional family, or no family support. It's overwhelming to me the number of women in poverty."

Bennett said local judges refer participants to the corps. The organization also receives referrals from Child Protective Services, the Hancock Resource Center, Youth Court and CASA. Prior to entering the program, if required, women must also have completed a drug rehabilitation program.

"Many of the women have a lot of debt and fines to pay and can't get out of the judicial system, further compounding the problem," Bennett said. "We help them set realistic short-term and long-term goals, so they can start feeling successful. Some of them suffer from self-esteem and confidence problems. We help them be successful and accomplish what they want to in life."

Bennett said one participant -- a mother of two -- dreamed of nursing school and was one day away from facing eviction.

"She had a previous felony conviction that kept her from getting well paying jobs," Bennett said. "We helped her find a free expungement clinic. When I talked to her last, she was enrolled in a CNA program and will soon start nursing school at PRCC."

Each participant is paired with a mentor, Bennett said, who has also experienced life struggles. They meet for Bible study as well as one-on-one conversations about goal setting, she added.

The ministry provides an 8-to-12 week program for women, Bennett said. During that time women learn life skills such as Bible study, career skills, computer skills, money management, relationship building, and conflict resolution.

Once complete, participants receive a certificate of completion, Bennett said.

"They will also have a well-written resume, job interview skills, how to dress for success, and how to fill out job applications," Bennett said. "They will also be prepared to handle questions about their past."

Bennett said she also networks with local business owners who are "willing to give women a chance, no matter the background."

In the midst of this, Bennett said one of the things she recognized was that many of the women don't have safe places to live or means to rent.

"How do you get a job if you don't have an apartment?" she said. "How do you get an apartment if you don't have a job?"

Bennett said the corps began seeking a "safe place" for participants to stay temporarily and a more permanent location for the corps.

She said that many offered their own homes or locations in residential areas, but Bennett said she started researching other possibilities.

"These types of programs have been more successful in former schools and motels," she said. "And I do believe God led me to that hotel on Hwy. 90."

The structures, located at 467 Hwy. 90 in Waveland, housed the former Travel Express Inn.

"Just like the women that come to us, it was abandoned, neglected, abused, scarred and it's an eyesore," Bennett said. "But it can be redeemed and recovered."

Bennett added that the location would provide room for classes, Bible study, and provide participants a safe place to live for a short time.

She sought out the owner, Darin Vega with Legendary Enterprises and Acquisitions, LLC of Alabama and made an offer on the property.

However, at the Oct. 2 meeting, the Waveland Board of Mayor and Aldermen declared the property a menace to public health and safety and gave Vega until the Oct. 17 meeting to present a step-by-step plan of rehabilitation.

"So we don't know whether we will get it or not," Bennett said. "In the meantime, we are looking for a property to do what we need to do. That type of property has been successful."

Enjoy the fall season among the hardwoods

Fall is a great time to walk in the woods and enjoy the sights, sounds and smells of the season. Leaves will soon change to their vivid fall colors, and deer, turkeys, squirrels and birds are stirring as the air gets cool and crisp.

Landowners with mature hardwood forests can't have better habitats for a diversity of wildlife species. Hardwood trees such as oaks, hickories and beeches provide nutritious hard mast (acorns and nuts) that many wildlife species readily seek as food.

Hardwood mast is not just important in the fall. In hardwood-dominant areas, mast will sometimes persist through winter into early spring. In the 1960s, researchers conducting a spring wild turkey analysis documented that more than 50 percent of the digestive contents in birds they examined was made up of acorns.

When I used to hunt bobwhite quail, I often examined what the birds had been eating. Bobwhites consume a diversity of seeds from grasses and legumes along field borders and along forest edges. In my experience, bobwhites will readily consume acorns or pieces of acorns when they are available. I don't hunt these game birds now, but I do enjoy watching them fly to cover in front of my pointers.

More than 450 species of butterflies and moths depend on oaks, hickories and other hardwood trees. They lay eggs on the trees, and their larvae feed on leaves. In turn, many birds, including wild turkeys, songbirds and woodpeckers, use these larvae as high-protein food resources during spring and summer while nesting, producing young and molting.

In natural hardwood stands, shade-tolerant trees, shrubs and vines, such as flowering dogwood, persimmon, black cherry, plum, wild grape, holly and huckleberry (wild blueberry), grow under the canopies of mature oaks and hickories and along forest edges. These plants produce soft mast (fruits) that are relished by wildlife, particularly wild turkeys. Fruit-producing trees and shrubs are excellent plants to encourage in hardwood forests to enhance game and nongame wildlife species. Additionally, they are aesthetically pleasing.

Make time to enjoy watching white-tailed deer foraging for acorns on the forest floor or gray and fox squirrels in the trees eating acorns and nuts. Hardwood forests support a diversity of wildlife that add to land aesthetics and recreational use by people.

In terms of land value, no land type rivals hardwood forests in terms of economic value and desired land features as recreational properties. In a recent study, Mississippi State University researchers found that bottomland hardwood forests and mixed pine-hardwood forests are the most eagerly sought-after land types for purchase by land buyers in Mississippi as recreational properties. Plus, wildlife-related recreation accounted for one-third of the average sales value of rural lands recently sold in the state according to this study.

Landowners with mature hardwood forests have some of the best wildlife habitat imaginable and should enjoy our beautiful fall season in Mississippi. Invite others to walk amongst the big hardwood trees and enjoy their colors and shapes. Catch glimpses of wildlife in their native home elements.

Guest Column by W.Daryl Jones MSU Extension Service

Innocent until proven guilty

Readers of this column know that I believe there is nothing new under the sun. Times change. Faces change. Technology advances. But all the basic themes of humanity were established long ago. As King Solomon wrote in Ecclesiastes 1:9. "What has been will be again. What has been done will be done again. There is nothing new under the sun."

Regarding the Kavanaugh affair, we don't have to look far. Twenty-seven years ago, Anita Hill stunned the country with accusations of sexual harassment leveled at conservative U.S. Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas.

The Hill-Thomas timeline is almost an exact replica of the current situation. Hill was a college professor. The charges came during the last days of the confirmation process. The charges involved sex. There were no other witnesses other than Hill and Thomas.

Both Thomas and Hill were unswerving and convincing under oath. In both cases, conspiracy theorists claimed the charges were last-ditch fabrications by the left to prevent a conservative from sitting on the nation's highest court. Hill passed a polygraph test. Thomas declined to take one.

According to National Public Radio, Anita Hill spoke with quiet dignity, reciting the indignities she testified were visited upon her. Hill testified, "He talked about pornographic materials depicting individuals with large penises or large breasts, involved in various sex acts. On several occasions, Thomas told me graphically of his own sexual prowess." She also said he asked her out on multiple occasions, despite her consistent refusals.

During the controversy, Thomas supporters claimed Hill was delusional or had been spurned, leading her to seek revenge. Hill said she only came forward out of a sense of patriotic obligation.

It was a classic "he said, she said" battle with no other witnesses. One of them had to be lying.

In the end, Thomas was confirmed 52-48 - the closest vote in a century. Female voters rebelled, ushering in what came to be known as "The Year of The Woman" in 1992. Elected were four new female - and Democratic - members of the Senate, including Dianne Feinstein of California, now the ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee.

Thomas has sat on the Supreme Court ever since without further accusations of sexual harassments. He is considered the most conservative member of the court.

Hill returned to academia and became a tenured professor at Brandeis University. She went on to write three books about her experience. She has been a frequent commentator in the media on sexual harassment issues. She now heads the Commission on Sexual Harassment and Advancing Equality in the Workplace, spearheaded by co-chair of the Nike Foundation Maria Eitel, venture capitalist Freada Kapor Klein, Lucasfilm President Kathleen Kennedy and talent attorney Nina Shaw.

Since then there have been several books written about the affair, some supporting Thomas, others Hill. The truth remains as elusive today as it was back then.

Watching the hearings, the whole spectacle seemed almost surreal and grotesque, as though the dirty laundry of our culture was exposed for all to see.

I am not surprised the hearings ended in a horrific brawl. The stakes are incredibly high. If Kavanaugh is appointed to the Supreme Court, the court will have a solid conservative majority for the first time in a century. It will change the very fabric of our government and country.

Politicians come and go, but our nation is run by a massive bureaucracy comprised of millions of federal employees, many protected in the jobs by civil service laws. The latest term for this is the Deep State. Kavanaugh is known most for his rul-

Governor Tate Reeves, Speaker of the House Phillip Gunn, Secretary of State Delbert Hosemann, U. S. Senator Cindy Hyde-Smith, U. S. Senator Roger Wicker and Congressman Steven Palazzo.

During the event, members of the Hancock County Republicans Executive Committee will announce plans to recognize long-time Republican leader, Dr. Andy Martinolich, with a memorial star. Governor Bryant will also issue a proclamation making October 20th a day in his memory in the State of Mississippi.

Dr. Andy, as he was fondly called, was known as a long-time leader of the Republican Party in Hancock County, hosting the annual BBQ at his home for decades. With vigorous interest, he followed local and national politics, serving for many years on the Executive Board of the Hancock County Republican Party as well as the state Republican Executive Committee and travelled as a delegate to the 1984 Republican National Convention in Dallas.

Dr. Martinolich dedicated his life to his family and helping others through his medical practices. He was active in civic activities bringing the first hospital to Hancock County and was one of the founders of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission. He was an active parishioner with Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church serving as president of the school board and as a member of the Knights of Columbus. He was also a member of St. Stanislaus Alumni Association and was inducted in to the Hall of Fame. As one of the founders of SMB Radiology, which served Gulfport Memorial, Hancock General and Garden Park hospitals, he was Chief of Staff at different times for these hospitals during his medical career.

The public is invited to attend the annual barbecue. The suggested donation of $20 per person includes entertainment, a platter of southern style barbeque made famous by the Silver Slipper Casino Hotel and two beverages. Estlin, a roarin' good time at the Pass Christian Hotel, along with a tragic, heartfelt military scene.

The tours involve 110 students portraying the per-school. Overall, students showed statistically significant gains in both ELA and Mathematics from 2016-17 to 2017-18."

SBE Chair Dr. Jason Dean said in the release that the 2017-18 accountability grades reflect the hard work of students and teachers.

"Mississippi students have achieved unprecedented outcomes in recent years, and these grades prove they can meet, and exceed, high expectations," he said.

According to the release, 29 districts increased their letter grades and the number of schools earning "A"s rose from 114 in 2016-17 to 181 in 2017-18.

MDE also launched Mississippi Succeeds Report Card, "an interactive only tool designed to help parents and communities more easily evaluate schools across the state." The website includes information about a school and district's academic performance; chronic absenteeism rates and teacher qualifications.

from one of the four middle schools in Hancock County (or homeschooled equivalent) to be a part the HYLA Junior High class of 2019. Candidates for HYLA typically have leadership potential but have not yet had the opportunity to discover it. The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy will help these unlikely leaders recognize their potential. Students from the four schools will meet together for four full-day sessions to learn about leadership skills, community development and high school readiness.

The last session will include a service project planned by students. The cost of the program is $100.00 per student; applicants may request scholarships through the school that they attend.

The HYPE program is seeking eighth grade students who already possess some leadership qualities and have the courage to take a stand for an issue they believe in. HYPE will work to engage these students to create positive change within their school community.

Students will meet with other students from their school for three half-day sessions and learn how to determine the need for change and how to create change. The last full day session will include the implementation of the students' plan for change. The cost of the program is $30.00 per student; applicants may request scholarships through the school that they attend.

There is one application for both programs. Students will indicate their preferred program on the application, however, the selection committee will determine the best fit, if any, for the student.

Students may be selected for only one program, not both. Students may obtain an application from their school, Hancock Resource Center, or download the application packet from www.hancockhrc.org or www.believethethepancock.org.

Applications are due on October 23 by 4 p.m. Students may turn their applications into their school or the Hancock Resource Center. Selected students will be notified before the Christmas holidays.

about $1,000 per teacher, pro-rated, since the district is already two months into the school year; or around $180,000 total for the year.

"While I'm all for raising salaries," Trustee Mike Bell said, "do we have the money for this and is it sustainable moving forward?"

"It all depends on ad valorem (revenue) and when the collections come in," McCraw said.

Currently, he said, the district has collected about 14 percent of its ad valorem revenue for the fiscal year, which is "pretty much standard" for this time of year. "The majority will come in January or February," he said.

Trustee Mark Kidd voted "no" on the salary scale update, while Bell, board President Casey

Favre and trustees Vicki Arnold and Ann Lathrop voted "yes."

Also on Wednesday, district construction manager Bill Carrige, Jr., gave board members a rundown on the fieldhouse project. So far, it has just been in the discussion phase, he said, but it would cost roughly $100 per square foot to build. The idea is for a facility somewhere between 7,000 square feet and 9,000 square feet, he said.

The new facility would be a multi-sport fieldhouse, he said, and would include the football team's locker room, boys and girls soccer teams' locker rooms, coaches offices and more. The old facility could be retro-fitted to make a space for the middle school football team locker rooms and phys-ed classes, he said.

The board voted Wednesday to authorize architect John Stolarski to begin designing the project, but was non-committal on whether it would actually be built.

In other action Wednesday:

- Former Bay-Waveland School District Trustee Joan Thomas spoke during public forum and thanked Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed and trustees Vicki Arnold and Mike Bell for coming to speak before the Hancock County chapter of the NAACP.

However, she said, she wanted to clarify something Reed had said at that meetings.

In September, Reed told the board of the trustees that about 55 percent of the district's third graders are not reading at grade level. Last year, the district had the lowest third grade score on the coast.

Reed also said the district has a "fairly significant" achievement gap between African-American students and white students.

"Are you saying that that (reading) gap is based solely on the performance of African-American students?" Thomas asked.

"Absolutely not," Reed said Wednesday.

expenses ending Sept. 30, 2017, remained constant from the year before.

In a separate matter, the board revisited the possibility of Bay St. Louis and Waveland purchasing water from the HCUA.

Hancock County Water and Sewer District's board representative Farron Hoda said that Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre has told him that if the city "could get water at about $.60 per thousand, he'd hook up."

"That would help us get our water costs down," he said.

HCUA Executive Director David Pitalo said if the HCUA brought Bay St. Louis on and went with $.60 to $.65 per thousand gallons, the HCUA could have a surplus in the budget, which could be used for tank maintenance.

If Waveland were added, based on the previous 12 month, the cost of water could potentially be $.45 per thousand gallons.

Pitalo said that each entity is also responsible for its own distribution. The HCUA takes care of transmission.

Waveland's representative Brent Anderson said that even if the city bought water, the costs would still be the same. He added that the city also has a new system.

Favre said that that Bay St. Louis' infrastructure situation is different.

"Our wells are way beyond their life expectancy," Favre said. "We get into that $.50 range, we're in the ballpark to have clear, clean, good water."

Favre asked if the HCUA could supply enough water. Pitalo said "yes."

Favre said it was something that the city council needed to start talking about and see who is interested.

In other action:

Bill Mitchell with Brown, Mitchell and Alexander Engineering discussed the status for the requests for proposals for operation and maintenance of facilities.

Mitchell said a pre-proposal conference was held on Sept. 26. Representatives from two companies attended; Inframark and Utility Partners.

Mitchell said representatives toured the facility and submitted questions. The deadline for proposal submission is Oct. 22 at 2 p.m., Mitchell said.

The board, which will act as an evaluation committee, will meet on Oct. 23 at 4:30 p.m. to score the proposals.

The proposals will be evaluated as follows: 25 percent for previous experience; 20 percent for approach; 10 percent for compliance history; 10 percent for financial capacity; 25 percent for cost proposal and 10 percent for retention of current HCUA personnel.

Pitalo said the HCUA received a check from the Kiln Utility and Fire District in the amount of $6,639.29 for past due invoices from October 2017 through August 2018. Earlier this year, the HCUA filed in justice court for debt collection. On April 12, Judge Desmond Hoda found in favor of the HCUA.

On April 20, the KUFUD filed a notice of appeal.

Pitalo said Thursday that the lawsuit has been withdrawn.

The conflict arose from a May 2016 proposal sent to the KUFUD from HCUA for a water price of $.85 per thousand gallons. The board voted on the amount, but a formal contract was not executed, KUFUD attorney Mike Haas, Jr. said in July.

On Sept. 14, 2017, the then-HCUA board voted to raise the water rates to $.90 per thousand gallons, due to costs associated with a break in the water system, HCUA attorney Heather Smith said in July.

Since Oct. 31, 2017, KUFUD has been scratching out the $.90 in its HCUA and changing that amount to $.85.

In another matter, the board discussed an invoice in the amount of $3,342.67 sent to KUFUD for the install cleanout at Kiln DeLisle and Bayou Cocoa Road.

Earlier this year, the board approved a motion that if repairs were made to that line, the bill would be sent to KUFUD.

Pitalo said the HCUA "finally got around to doing it." It wasn't necessary to complete the work during the colder months, but as it got hotter, it became necessary.

Pitalo said he received a letter from Haas stating that KUFUD would not pay the bill. Patricia Cuevas, KUFUD's representative on the board, said the reason KUFUD won't pay is because the district wasn't notified of the action.

Cuevas asked that Pitalo send a copy of the HCUA's minutes reflecting the motion and a summation from Pitalo. The next regular meeting is scheduled for Nov. 1 at 4:30 p.m.

ings in favor of weakening this massive apparatus.

Simultaneously, the Trump versus anti-Trump debate is at a crescendo. Midterm elections are weeks away. Time is of the essence. It is a battle for the heart and soul of the nation.

If one wants to look on the positive side, vicious Senate confirmation hearings beat the heck out of war and bloodshed as a way to decide the fate of our nation. We should count our blessings. Let's not forget the horror of the Civil War.

He said. She said. How can anyone resolve the truth? Alleged witnesses have no recollection of the party.

Perhaps one or both were too drunk to remember accurately. We've all witnessed young teens when they first encounter alcohol. Perhaps one or both are delusional. Serious mental illness infects 10 percent of our population. We all have the capacity for delusional recollections.

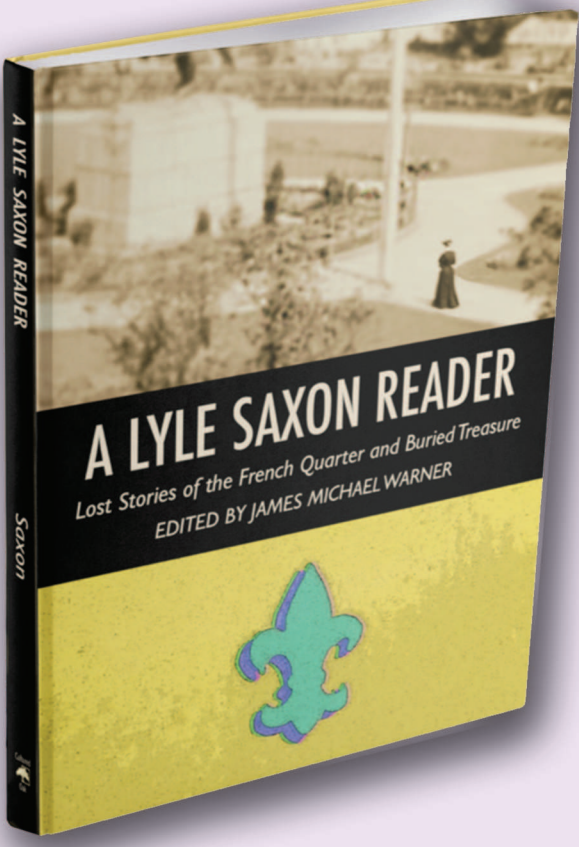

As I write this, there are hundreds, if not thousands, of men sitting in jail cells convicted of rape based almost exclusively on the testimony of the woman. The jury believed the woman. The man claimed it was consensual sex.

Likewise, there are also hundreds, if not thousands, of sexual predators roaming free, terrorizing innocent women, because they live in a system that tolerates such behavior. The jury believed the man. The woman said it was rape.

The Senate hearing reflects one of the great unresolvable problems plaguing our culture and our society today. There are no easy answers.

The Bible recounts the stories of men driven by lust to inflict damage and harm on innocent women. Thou shalt not commit adultery. There are also stories of deceitful, conniving women manipulating events to their own advantage. Thou shalt not bear false witness against your neighbor. Both sexes are human. Both mired in sin. There is nothing new under the sun.

So where do I stand? On the side of the time tested tenets of our court system. Innocent until proven guilty. Lynchings and witch trials were based on rumors. We don't need to revert to that.

E. CENTRAL BLANKS STANISLAUS 16-0

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

On Friday night 'between the walls', it finally felt like football weather. There was finally a little crispness in the air and it wasn't heavy with humidity. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws played host to the East Central Hornets in a battle for the lead in Division 8-4A. And, the stands were packed with alumni as Homecoming was the backdrop for the cool evening.

The Hornets came into the contest undefeated and the Rocks were hoping to play the roll of spoiler; however, that would not be the final result. But, the final decision of 16-0 in favor of the Hornets did not come without effort.

The Hornets (7-0, 3-0) doubled up on the number of plays with 63 to the Rocks' 30. SSC (3-5, 2-1) ended up turning the ball over three times (two interceptions, one fumble) to the Hornets lone fumble. The Hornets controlled the clock with a ratio of 3:1 and the Rocks suffered nine penalties for 83 yards to East Central's five flags for 60 yards. Yet, St. Stanislaus still had their opportunities until late in the game.

SSC head coach Nate Encrapera commented, "For a team to be successful against a squad like East Central, one cannot turn the ball over three times. Their defense is a swarming defense that presses you and they limit your touches on offense with a very effective ground control game. East Central is a very good football team but we showed we showed we could play with them. We just shot ourselves in the foot a few too many times. I was proud of the way our defense stepped up and limited them. We just could not string together some drives on offense and get in the end zone."

In the first half, the Rocks ran just 15 plays including six running plays. Of those six running plays, four were sacks for a loss of 38 yards. Max Favre was 5-for-9 passing in the first half for 85 yards. But, the team managed just two first downs.

On the contrary, East Central ran 30 plays with 28 of them being running plays for 175 yards. After East Central forced a fumble on the Rocks' first possession, it took the Hornets just two plays to find the end zone. Dylan Grinsteinner ripped off a 26-yard scoring run with 10:22 left in the first period. The PAT by Branson Davis was good making the score 7-0.

The Rocks were not able to string anything together on their second possession and punted away. Lee Negrotto's 43-yard punt pinned the Hornets at their own 12 yard line but a personal foul penalty pushed the Hornets back to their own six yard line.

East Central put together a 16-play drive that featured all running plays by Grinsteinner and Cameron Gray. Gray finished off the drive scoring from four yards out with 2:39 left in the first quarter. The PAT by Davis missed wide right leaving the score 13-0.

The Rocks were forced to punt again following the ensuing kickoff; however, the Rocks defense stiffened and forced a Hornet punt after strong play from Negrotto, Thomas Williams, Trace Rhodes, Brian Bilich, Trustin Northington and Nate McCormick.

SSC took over on their own 22 yard line and on third down, Favre connected with Brandon Bordelon for a 38-yard pickup. Eventually, the Rocks would punt away.

East Central put together a 13-play drive to close out the half getting all the way down to the Rock 23 yard line before an offensive pass interference call backed them up 15 more yards. With one second remaining, the Hornets called timeout to get Davis set up for a 37-yard field goal attempt that missed wide left leaving the score 13-0 at intermission.

At halftime, Saint Stanislaus College presented the 2018 Homecoming Court that was comprised of OLA junior Hayden Henry, OLA junior Mary Elaine DeMetz, OLA senior Olivia Gelpi, OLA senior Victoria Wolf and OLA senior Anna Wittmann. Following the introduction of the court, Anna Wittmann, the daughter of SSC class of 1992 alum Kerry Wittmann, was crowned Homecoming Queen 2018.

The SSC defense came out inspired and stuffed East Central on a fourth-and-short. The Rocks took over at the Hornet 47 yard line. Favre connected with Bordelon for 22 yards. Bordelon then carried for another 15 yards to the Hornet 10 yard line. Two plays later, the Rocks were intercepted on a tipped ball and the Hornets took over at their own 16 yard line.

East Central put together a 19-play drive that resulted in a missed 35-yard field goal attempt by Davis with 10:02 left in the game that made the score 16-0. The Rocks took over at their own 19 yard line. Favre hit Dallas Payne for 29 yards but was intercepted three plays later stalling the drive.

The Rock defense kept the Hornets in the graveyard forcing another punt. The Rocks took over at the

Hancock Hawks fall 56-28 to D'Iberville Warriors

BY DWAYNE BREMER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Hancock Hawks dropped their sixth consecutive game Friday evening with a 56-28 loss to the D'Iberville Warriors.

The Warriors (7-2) took advantage of several big plays to build a 35-0 half-time lead.

Warrior quarterback Jaden Walley started things out with a 10-yard scoring run on the opening possession of the game.

Later in the first quarter, Justin Walley, Jaden's brother, returned an interception 71 yards to set up the Warriors with a first-and-goal at the Hawks three.

Michael Whitley scored on the next play and the point-after gave D'Iberville a 14-0 lead.

The onslaught continued when Jaden Walley scored on a one-yard run at the nine-minute mark of the second quarter.

A few minutes later, Walley connected with Whitley on a 50-yard scoring strike.

Late in the first half, the Hawks looked to get back into the game when Colby McGough intercepted a pass at the Warrior 30.

The Hawks quickly drove into the redzone, thanks to a 36-yard completion from Caleb Garcia to Chris Bernard, but then disaster struck when Garcia was intercepted by Justin Walley, who returned it 100 yards for a touchdown as time expired in the half.

Trailing 35-0, the Hawks finally showed signs of life to start the third quarter, as they drove 67 yards for their first score of the evening.

Blake Comeaux had 43 yards rushing on the drive, including a seven-yard run for a touchdown.

Austin Hyde added the point-after to make the score 35-7.

D'Iberville answered quickly with a 50-yard scoring drive that ended with Jaden Walley tossing a 15-yard touchdown to Justin Heartley.

Walley capped his big night with a 16-yard scoring run at the end of the third quarter, as the Warriors pushed the score to 49-7.

Hancock managed to salvage some pride by scoring three times in the fourth quarter.

Comeaux hauled in a 14-yard screen pass for a touchdown at the 9:20 mark.

Tyler Kapp then recovered a Warrior fumble to give the Hawks good field position at the 40.

Six plays later, Garcia connected with Peyton Miller on a 28-yard scoring strike.

Hyde's point-after cut the Warriors' lead to 49-21.

Later in the fourth, Garcia connected with Jordan Fouchée on a 14-yard pass to cut the lead even further, 49-28.

Garcia finished the game with 12 completions on 24 attempts for 167 yards and three scores, to go along with the two interceptions.

With less than a minute remaining, Heartley broke free on a 55-yard touchdown run for the Warriors to round out the scoring, 56-28.

One bright spot for the Hawks Friday was the play of Chris Bernard and Junior running back Anthoni Flowers.

Flowers rushed for 73 yards on 11 carries. Bernard rushed for 81 yards and caught five passes for another 61 yards.

Comeaux added 72 yards rushing.

The Hawks will return home next Friday to take on Harrison Central.

Vancleave Bulldogs take down Bay High Tigers 24-7

BY HUNTER DAWKINS
GAZEBO GAZETTE

With their MHSAA playoff hopes in the balance, the Bay High Tigers (1-7) couldn't get any help this week. The Tigers lost the road matchup against the Vancleave Bulldogs 24-7.

Coming right out of the gates, the Bulldogs scored on the first two possessions in the first quarter to build a 10-0 lead.

The Tigers couldn't find any offensive answers in the first half, being shut out and giving up another score for a 17-0 deficit.

Finally, the Tigers showed themselves on the new Vancleave field, as the Bay High Tigers went on a lengthy series and running back Cade Compretta sledged in for the first and only score with just over five minutes left in the game. Once Tigers' kicker Dawson Kotsakos put the kick through the uprights, the Bay narrowed the lead to ten points, 17-7.

The rally was brief and answered by the Bulldogs, who scored a countering touchdown in the fourth quarter to build the lead to 24-7.

Bay High could not answer, therefore leaving 24-7 as the final score.

Bay High's game next week will be against the state's top 4A team and district rival, East Central High School, which defeated Stanislaus Friday. The game will be played at H.D. Shirley Stadium in Hurley at 7 p.m.

Hancock & OLA pick up v-ball wins

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The high school volleyball regular season is quickly coming to a close. The regular season ends on Tuesday, October 16th and the state playoffs begin, in earnest, on Thursday, October 18th.

The Hancock Lady Hawks and the Our Lady Academy Crescents have assured themselves of hosting first round state playoff games by virtue of claiming their respective division titles and top seeds.

The Lady Hawks (19-9) defeated Ocean Springs on Tuesday, October 9th 25-22, 25-16 and 25-20.

Bella Thoennes led the squad with 12 kills and a block followed by Chloe Swilley with 10 kills. Reagan Huff tallied nine kills, two blocks and six digs while Maleah Austin recorded eight kills. East Central 36 yard line after a short punt. But, the drive was cut short on consecutive 15-yard penalties on the Rocks.

East Central took over on their own nine yard line after a 49-yard punt by Negrotto. The Hornets picked up a new set of downs but fumbled the ball three plays later and the Rocks' McCormick covered up the loose ball at the Hornet 15 yard line.

The Rocks drive came up short and allowed the shutout to remain.

Encrpera added, "We played well on defense tonight but did not string together anything on offense. Now, we have to get this one behind us and get ready for a physical and much improved Moss Point team that is getting better each week."

In the game, Favre was 10-for-22 for 169 yards and two interceptions. Bordelon led the receivers with five catches for 90 yards. For East Central, Grinsteiner carried the ball 25 times for 133 yards and a touchdown while Gray added 102 yards and a touchdown on 22 carries.

The Hornets now stand alone at the top of the division rankings at 7-0 and 3-0 and control their own destiny. The Hornets will host Bay High next Friday. Bay High lost to Vancleave 17-7 last night. The Rocks travel to Moss Point to lock horns with the Tigers who defeated Pass Christian 15-0. Moss Point and St. Stanislaus will be playing for sole possession of second place in Division 8-4A heading into the final week of the season and a possible home playoff game in the balance. Pearl River's men's soccer team saw a number of players jump into the scoring Tuesday as the Wildcats on 3-0 at Meridian.

Mike Jimenez (Ocean Springs) paced the Wildcats (10-3, 5-2 MACJC South) with a goal and an assist.

Kealan Baggett (Ocean Springs) and Jonovan Cucurullo (Waveland; Bay) added goals, while Joe Elliott (Leicester, England) tallied a season-high two assists.

Reigning MACJC Goalkeeper of the Week Kobe Lie (Hattiesburg; North Forrest) stopped all four shots he faced to earn his 10th win and sixth shutout of the season.

PRCC will close out the home portion of its schedule with a 7 p.m. tilt against Jones College before concluding the regular season next Monday at Itawamba.

2nd half surge propels Pearl River to South Division title

BY PATRICK OCHS
PRCC DIRECTOR OF
COMMUNICATIONS FOR ATHLETICS

Head coach Drew Gallant would be the first to say Pearl River has not played enough "Wildcat soccer" down the stretch of the regular season. That changed Friday night.

With first place in the MACJC South and a first-round bye hanging in the balance, the Wildcats came alive in the second half to stun visiting Jones College 4-3 on Sophomore Night at the PRCC soccer complex.

Thanks to winning a tie breaker with JC and Southwest, PRCC won't play again until 2:30 p.m. next Saturday at JC, which is hosting the tournament.

"We went down 1-0 in the first 5 minutes and our guys kind of looked shell shocked," Gallant said. "We held on until halftime and made some big changes that (assistant coach) J.P. Valadares suggested. Those led to some prime opportunities.

"The second half we looked more like our old selves."

Trailing 1-0 at the break after a Dalton Morgan goal, the Wildcats (11-3, 6-2 MACJC South) didn't take long to come alive in the second half. By the 50th minute, PRCC went from trailing to leading thanks to two own goals.

Joe Elliott (Leicester, England) sent a long free kick into the box from just inside midfield. A JC Bobcat attempted to head the ball out of danger but instead put it into the back of the net. Minutes later, Jevaun Ennis (Maypen, Jamaica) made the most of limited space along the goal line, dancing around a couple defenders before sending the ball off another Bobcat and into the back of the net for a second own goal.

"I really just wanted to get it on target to see what would happen," Ennis said.

The goal extended the sophomore's goal lead on the team to 13.

"Everything really revolved around Jevaun tonight," Gallant said. "He was beating kids nonstop all night, going inside of them and outside of them."

Bo Bowman (Bay St. Louis; Bay) extended PRCC's advantage to 3-1. Kealan Baggett (Ocean Springs) threaded a pass through traffic to Bowman, who was coming back across the goal mouth. The movement pulled the JC (10-2, 5-2) keeper out and Bowman touched it around the exposed Bobcat.

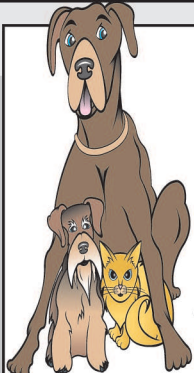

After Justis Casey got JC back within a goal at 3-2, the Wildcats struck back in the 81st minute. Once again Elliott served a strong kick into the box from near the PRCC dugout. Daminik White (Kingston, Jamaica) knocked the ball down in traffic and then blasted it past the sprawled keeper to go ahead 4-2.

"The keeper had absolutely no chance on that one," Gallant said.

Malachi Harrison scored five minutes later to pull the Bobcats back within one but with the game on the line and around 63 seconds remaining, goalkeeper Kobe Lie (Hattiesburg; North Forrest) made perhaps his biggest save of the night. Tracking the JC attack down the right side, the Bobcats sent a ball into the box.

"I saw one of their players go up and put a good header on it," Lie said. "I saw it start going over my head a bit, so I knew I had to try and get up and push it over the bar. I just extended my arm out and got it over."

Lie had to contort his body to push the ball over the cross bar for his sixth — and biggest — save of the evening.

Relax & enjoy the quiet

I'm writing this while hurricane is out in the gulf. The weather has forced me to take a day or two off. It has been a very busy year, and honestly I am enjoying a couple of days off. Sure, I'm having to do some work, but I'm really enjoying some peace and quiet.

The quiet part is what got me thinking. While I'm at home, I'll watch fishing videos, mostly on social media. It absolutely blows my mind the amount of folks who constantly yell at each other on the boat. "Get the net!", "move outta my way!", or "REEL!" Are the ones you often hear some knuckle head screaming.

I always tell people on my boat, if you hear me yelling, you'd better listen. People are on the boat to relax and have fun. Yelling or screaming at someone only causes problems. Simple instructions, in a reasonable tone will get things done much more efficiently. The panic and stress that usually follows someone yelling like a lunatic, usually causes more harm than good.

For what it's worth, this tip can be utilized on and off the water. It works at Walmart, restaurants, doctors offices, really everywhere. Yell when you absolutely need to be heard. All other times, just talk.

Dr. Sandra Reed congratulates Bay High's Cameron Adams on his selection as a National Merit semifinalist.

Moss Point shuts out Pass Christian Pirates 15-0

BY HUNTER DAWKINS
GAZEBO GAZETTE

Luck was not on the side of the Pass Christian Pirates in Friday's district game, as they were shutout 15-0 by the Moss Point Tigers at McDonald Stadium in the Pass. Defensively, the Pirates (1-7, 0-3) kept pace with the Tigers, forcing five turnovers and only allowing one Moss Point touchdown for the first three quarters. "Defense played fantastic," said Pass Christian Head Football Coach Casey Wittmann. "They kept us in the game." Moss Point Tigers senior running back Tytus Miles accounted for just shy of 100 yards with over 20 carries and a five-yard touchdown run in the first. The Tigers opened the game with the ball -- the Pirates won the toss but deferred to the second half. Moss Point accounted for a ten-play drive with Miles running off tackle from five yards out. Tigers kicker Dreyden Russell drilled his only extra point through the uprights with 7:18 left in the first quarter with the early lead 7-0, Moss Point. Pass Christian went three-and-out with Pirates quarterback Dustin Allison tossing two incompletions after only gaining a yard on first down. The Tigers put together another lengthy nine-play drive, but were stalled by the Pirates' stingy defense with a fumble that was recovered by the Pirates near midfield with 2:16 left in the first quarter. Pass Christian followed with an unimpressive offensive series, where Allison was viciously hit and taken out of the game due to concussion protocol. "This matter is at the trainer's discretion and we will find out soon," said Wittmann. The Mississippi High School Activities Association (MHSAA) has come down on football players being allowed to play with mul-tle concussions in a year. Allison had one earlier in the year against Perry Central. Despite the Pirates holding the Tigers on a 15-play series and causing a turnover on downs with 1:03 left in the half, the rhythm was off. the Pirates fumbled on their own 28-yard line with 14.3 seconds left, but Moss Point quickly ended the half without anything else as Pirates defensive back Andrew Moffatt intercepted the ball in the end zone with 4.7 seconds left. The halftime score was 7-0 Moss Point lead. The beginning of the second half was much like the first, even with the switch of Austin Scanlan as the Pirates' quarterback. In a turn of events, Moss

Point went three-and-out on their possession. With 6:58 left in the third quarter, the Tigers fumbled a high snap on the punt and the Pass Christian Pirates took possession on the 1-yard line. Despite being granted a top-notch spot in the red zone, the Pirates failed to score and fumbled the ball back to the Tigers with 5:20 left in the third quarter. The Tigers drove the ball back to decent field position before punting and the Pirates lost their luck again. Star punt returner Damonta May fumbled the ball on the kick with 1:18 left in the third quarter. Moss Point took five plays but turned the ball over on downs.

Finally, the Pirates put together a meaningful drive, consisting of ten-plays back to midfield, before they were forced to punt. Pass High fumbled the punt with 6:01 left and the rest was history for this game. Six plays and Moss Point scored one more, when wildcat quarterback Keandre Booker optioned in from one yard out for the final touchdown. After Booker ran in a two-point conversion with under four minutes left, the final score was 15-0. Pass Christian will host its final home game and senior night against Vancleave next week at 7 p.m.

Flashback to 'Double Vision' at St. Stanislaus

Freshmen Lane and Ladd Gex of Kiln.

Freshmen Carson and Keegan Leverett of Gulfport.

Freshmen Leo and Will Scriber of Pass Christian.

Seventh graders Jack and Jake Theriot of Picayune.

Sometimes one imagines a case of double vision at St. Stanislaus, a junior-senior high school operated here since 1854 by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

That opening line from a 1976 article about the seven sets of twins at SSC that year rings true again today, with seven sets of twins or triplets currently attending Saint Stanislaus, seen in the accompanying photos. Not included is senior Kade Wittman, whose twin sister Anna attends Our Lady Academy. A copy of the original article (published by the South Mississippi Sun, now The Sun Herald) made its way back to campus last year when sophomore Prentice Wallace learned about the school's archives and mentioned them to his father, Joel Wallace, SSC Class of 1977.

Mr. Wallace and his twin brother Johnny were featured in the article, and thanks to his cousin Marion Davis, he had an original copy.

Mr. Wallace donated the article to Saint Stanislaus last year. He says he remembers taking the 1976 photo "like it was yesterday." "Not only were we seven sets of twins at SSC, but we were all like family. We all knew each other and shared a oneness as Rock-A-Chaws." Because of his generosity and that of many others, the school's archives continue to grow following a total loss of the original archives during Hurricane Katrina. Other alumni have donated old year-books, report cards, photos and other school memorabilia. Other donations have come from children of former students, former faculty or staff, and sometimes, complete strangers. A couple in Carriere recently found a bound set of 1930s school newspapers in their barn, and were thoughtful enough to return it to the school.

"Saint Stanislaus has been an important part of Bay St. Louis and the Mississippi Gulf Coast since 1854," says Daniel Grieves, Alumni Director. "We are grateful to be able to rebuild our archives, and to again have resources that remind us of our school's unique history." Today's Saint Stanislaus twins recreated the poses

HOW BOLD ARE YOU WITH YOUR FAITH?

BY GARY ANDREWS
GARY@GADEVOTIONALS.COM

Everyday we are going to be among people or around someone who we do not know. Many of us shy away from what we would like to share with these people for fear of rejection from them. Our Christian faith is sometimes tarnished because we are reluctant to give praise to our God and Father and because we are either ashamed or too timid to talk about the saving grace of Jesus.

A friend told me of a restaurant he and his wife went to for the first time. When the waiter came to take their order he was a well-mannered, courteous, young college student. His professionalism was above reproach and his attention to details was very noticeable.

When he delivered the food to the table my friend and his wife bowed their head to say the blessing. My friend's wife pointed to the waiter who was waiting on them when my friend turned and asked him to join them for the blessing. The waiter jumped at the request and asked if he could say it, which he did with such boldness that many in the restaurant could hear him. My friend thanked him and the young man replied that he was never ashamed to acknowledge Jesus as his Lord and Savior and told my friend thank you for allowing him to be a part of their prayer time.

I often wonder how many of us would do this in front of our employer, customers, and total strangers. Would we jump at the chance to profess our faith in Christ knowing that someone may ridicule us for our actions or complain to the management about our boldness? I am not sure what the rules and regulations of this restaurant are but I feel sure that it is a Christian organization. In so many places of our work we cannot mention anything associated with Christianity because it may offend one person. It seems that as our world ventures more and more into the future we become more and more worldly and associate ourselves with the prince of the air, who is Satan. What a shame that we have allowed ourselves and our nation to become this way.

Colossians 3:22-23 tells us;

"Bondservants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh, not with eyeservice, as men-pleasers, but in sincerity of heart, fearing God. And whatever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord and not to men."

It is with great joy that I hear stories similar to the one with the young waiter, someone willing to work through his college years and earn his way in society, but bold enough to stand up for the one and only true God. My friend was also awed by this experience and told management of the sincerity of their employee and his boldness to do the job right with the attitude of giving thanks to Almighty God. This compliment was well received and agreed with my friend that this young waiter has great potential of management, whether it is in the restaurant business or anything else he attempts. Will you stand up and take a position of boldness for our Lord and Savior?

OLA celebrates Mercy Day

SEA COAST ECHO

Our Lady Academy (OLA) held its annual Mercy Day Celebration on September 21, 2018. Each year, OLA observes the founding of the House of Mercy on Baggot St. in Dublin, Ireland. Catherine McAuley opened the House of Mercy to shelter and educate women and girls. Mother Catherine McAuley founded the sisters of Mercy in 1831. Her motto, “Let us fit young women for earth without unfitting them for heaven” remains present in the halls of Our Lady Academy.

The celebration consists of a morning prayer service, tea, a family picnic, and lots of music, games, and laughter.

OLA, Teacher, Leigh Chapman began the Mercy Day prayer ceremony with a tribute to Catherine McAuley.

“It is a dream of God’s compassion and mercy that became the House of Mercy on Baggot Street in Dublin, Ireland. The initial opening of those first doors of mercy widened to embrace the struggling poor of Dublin and beyond. Catherine chose to use her inherited wealth to extend Christ’s mercy to those in need. The House of Mercy addressed the needs of homeless girls and women as well as people who were uneducated and economically poor.”

The theme of this year’s celebration centered on the ‘Door of Mercy’. “You only have to knock once, and you only have to knock lightly. The God of Mercy, whose door it is, is always home.”

A door was erected for the students, faculty and all attendees to walk through it and present their special intentions to God.

Included in the prayer service, each sisterhood presented gifts of service to OLA’s Sisters of Mercy, Sister Jackie and Sister Elisa.

The sisterhoods are made up of students from each class representing six ministries, Hospitality, Respect and Dignity, Justice, Diversity, Integrity and Compassion and Stewardship. The purpose of sisterhoods is for students to work as a team in developing and fulfilling projects that service others. The gifts involved service projects directed to help the poor, the homeless, the underprivileged and children in need.

Alumnae, parents, students and faculty joined for tea and pastries in the Gulf Coast Community Center. Lunch was celebrated on the lawn under elaborate decorated tents, accompanied by a local soloist. Following lunch, the competition between the sisterhoods began. Sisterhood teams competed in kick ball, a scavenger hunt, art project, quiz bowl, and crash course on ironing a hem. Once the scores for each team were tallied, the winner of this year’s Mercy Day Sisterhood was announced.

The “Stewardship” sisterhood team took home the 2018 Mercy Day trophy.

P is for Pancake, Pirates, and Pajamas; T is for Tea Time and Toast

Learning is abuzz in Pre-K at Holy Trinity! Students of Mrs. Reini McNeill’s Pre-K4 spent the week learning all about the letters P and T. Students helped make pancakes for a snack. As pirates, they prowled about the campus in search of great treasure, and charged the principal’s office! Pajamas and popcorn rounded out the learning, as well as show-and-tell. Tea Time and Toast made learning the letter T fun. Young men wore their best ties, while young ladies donned their beautiful bonnets. Holy Trinity is a Catholic elementary school in Bay St. Louis. For over 50 years, our school has been committed to teaching and modeling Catholic Christian morals and values, while creating a safe, caring, and respectful environment that supports academic excellence and a love of learning based on Catholic traditions. For more information, please contact the school office at 228-467-5158.
